The parish is located approximately 5 miles west of Aberdeen and is within the area of the North Sea and a large offshore platform. The village is closely located to the small fishing village of Cults which is only 4 miles from the parish. Dcie is situated on the northern side of the Dee estuary. The parish is currently predominately Presbyterian in its Christianity, although there are a few Catholics and Methodists amongst the local population. The Parish is currently under the charge of the Livingstone of West Stone church who officially govern the parish. References Category:Villages in AberdeenshireSaw is a seminal action-horror film by legendary horror director Wes Craven. It's usually regarded as one of the major milestones in the genre, not just in horror history, but in all movie history. But let's get one thing straight before we begin. Saw isn't perfect, by any means. It features some ridiculous plot points, and I won't go into them here. What I will, however, do is give my analysis of why the film is still considered one of the greatest all time and my top 5 favourite scenes. Throughout the course of the film, we see a number of different methods for serial killers to cope with their victims; most of which involve dismembering them. We start off in the bathroom with a serial killer in a fair bit of pain himself, when he first delivers
